Berkeley incinerator may pollute Albany

By STEPHEN BUEL

A citizen sponsored initiative opposing the construction of a garbage incinerator which has qualified for Berkeley's November ballot could have a serious effect upon the quality of the air for the residents of nearby Albany.

The initiative would establish a five year moratorium upon the construction of a garbage incineration plant in Berkeley. The city's Department of Public Works is currently negotiating with two companies that have submitted proposals to build such a plant in West Berkeley, on a parcel of land at Second and Gilman Streets.

Albany residents could find themselves interested in the Berkeley ballot measure for two reasons, chiefly due to the proximity of the incinerator's proposed northwest Berkeley site to Albany Village.

Secondly, though far more remote, there has been talk in the past among members of Berkeley's Solid Waste Management Commission of one day asking Albany to provide its garbage to the city of Berkeley. Such a move would certainly have an impact upon the fees that Albany residents now pay for their garbage service with Oakland Scavenger.

The anti-incinerator initiative has been endorsed by the Sierra Club's San Francisco Bay executive committee. Donald Forman, a member of that committee, as well as the Sierra Club's East Bay chairman, said he is concerned about the effect that emissions from a garbage incinerator would have upon air quality.

Berkeley's garbage, like that of most cities, contains substances like mercury, pesticides and even some radioactive wastes which are commonly found in smoke detectors.

For many such toxic substances there are no federal emissions standards, and Forman said he is afraid that quantities of these would start appearing in the incinerators' emissions.

Were that to happen, it is likely that these substances would drift into the atmosphere of Albany. Many Albany residents now complain of the odor generated by Berkeley's Pacific Steelcasting Company, which is just a block away from the proposed incinerator's site.

Forman also said that a garbage incinerator would threaten the city of Berkeley's new commitment to recycling.

In addition to the Ecology Center's ongoing efforts at the Second and Gilman site — where they are soon to be joined by El Cerrito's E.C.Ology buyback center — the city has recently entered into an agreement for the composting of plant wastes with the recycling group Urban Ore.

El Cerrito pulls the plug on mid-block street lights

City goes dark to cut costs

By GORDON RADDUE

EL CERRITO — Except in cases where citizens are willing to pay for them directly, most of the city's remaining mid-block street lights will be turned out in a cost-cutting measure necessitated by recent state reductions in funding to the cities.

The city has directed Pacific Gas & Electric Co. to turn out an additional 84 neighborhood street lights. Many of the city's mid-block lights were de-energized in 1977 as part of a budget-reduction process.

With the new proposed cuts, the city will retain only intersection lights and others deemed necessary for traffic safety.

Residents desiring to keep their mid-block lights turned on, or to reactivate those which already have been de-energized, are being asked to contact PG&E and arrange to be billed on a contract basis. The monthly rate is about $12.

Streets definitely scheduled to have their mid-block lights de-energized include Albemarle, Cabrillo, Clayton, Elm, Everett, Kearney, Lawrence, Lexington, Madison, Navellier, Norvell, Rivera and Scott, along with Liberty and Pomona avenues and Schmidt Lane.

People can learn which lights will be turned out by phoning the city's Engineering Division at 234-5664. Contracts with PG&E can be arranged by calling the company's Richmond office at 232-7363.

Since the city's budget does not allow for a standby charge, those lamps now being de-activated will be removed. PG&E has announced its intention to begin removing those already de-activatd by Jan. 1, 1983.

The pension fund problem

By RUTH GANONG
Mayor

LBANY — A public hearing will be held on August 9 at 8 p.m. at City Hall to discuss whether the City Council should levy an ad valorem tax of 0.0993 of full value to raise $303,740 to pay for this year's of the underfunded pension system for safety emes hired prior to 1971. This public hearing will give an opportunity to ask questions about the pension and voice thir opinions about the tax that the Council ery.

The City Council has just completed planning a budr next year. Because of decreased revenues, many had to be made in staffing and capital improvements, hes had to be levied for certain services. Even with ow and fees, we are still lacking money to pay an ssue amount into the City pension fund to make it ically sound. In the past, city councils have been unor in some cases, unwilling, to put enough money he pension fund. We are now faced with the possible collapse of the fund in the 1990s, if we do not start putting money aside to fund the pension system.

The City of Albany has two basic pension systems. The first is a local plan which was first approved by the voters in the 1950s. The second is the California State Public Employees Retirement System (PERS), which was implemented in 1971. At that time, the City Council decided to close the local plan because of its financial difficulties. After 1971, all employees, including new police and firefighters, were placed in PERS. However, in fairness to safety employees already in the local plan, voters approved a Charter revision which provided that the city and the employees each would have to contribute 9 percent in salaries, and that the city could contribute more if the need arose.

There have been several court rulings that have had a significant impact on the local pension system. In the 1969 case of Neuhauser v. the City of Albany, the court ruled

Hillside Run draws 150 with strong legs

By KEITH EASTHOUSE

EL CERRITO — For the 13th consecutive year, local runners and their families will participate in what has become an El Cerrito tradition — the Hillside Run.

One hundred fifty participants, ranging in age from 12 to 50 years, are expected to tackle the 4-mile, up-and-down course which starts and ends in the hills. Beginning at 10:30 on Saturday, Aug. 7, the race will be over well before noon, at which time tired runners can relax and enjoy a barbeque at Cerrito Vista Park.

Organized by the El Cerrito Community Center, the run has become community event. There are six age groups — 12 and under, 18-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50 and over — for both men and women, so there will be not just one winner but 12.

And members of a runner's family who do not wish to compete can still take part in the barbeque. The city's fire department is handling the cooking, as well as marking the course with chalk so that runners don't get lost. Additionally, the police department will patrol the intersections to ensure that the course is kept free of automobiles.

"We've tried to maintain the inegrity of the family and community orientation of the run," said Cliff Marchetti, director of the El Cerrito Community Center and co-organizer of the run. "We get lots of children and mothers. The best thing about the run is that whole families participate.

"In fact, certain families run every year. Some kids have grown up with the race."

Don't get the idea, however, that the run isn't taken seriously. As Marchetti said, "the guy or gal who takes first place for their age group is Ritschard, who now lives in El Cerrito, graduated from Cal Poly State College, Pomona with a B.S. in biology, and went on to get a Ph.D. in marine biology from Oregon State University.

He taught at several universities, did research on the effects of radiation on marine life at Lawrence Livermore Laboratories, and examined the environmental impact of all sources of power in the southwestern U.S. In 1976 he began working at LBL.

At Lawrence Berkeley Laboratories, Ritschard is now a deputy program leader working on energy analysis. He was studying environmental damage done by energy development, but funds for this work have been cut under the Reagan administration.

Young tennis players are pros off the cou

Teenage athletes who play to win

By KEITH EASTHOUSE

EL CERRITO — In a society where winners are idolized, it is refreshing to encounter teenage athletes who enjoy a sport for its own sake.

Take El Cerrito residents Carolyn Wei and Brian Mehmedbasich: talented and dedicated tennis players who have managed to keep their successes and failures, their hopes and fears, in perspective.

Wei, who is 14, first picked up a racket two years ago and promptly fell in love with the game. This summer she's practically eating and breathing tennis, practicing five hours a day, seven days a week — and that's in-between competing about every week in a new tournament.

Mehmedbasich, 18, is a little less dedicated at the moment, having recently completed a grueling, four-month tennis season as the No. 6 singles man for Hayward State, which won its seventh consecutive Far Western Conference Championship this past spring.

Wei, who is 5-1, 103 pounds, explained her dedication by simply saying, "I like playing tennis. It's fun, and I like the competition and playing against a lot of people."

In only her second summer of tournament play, Wei won her first and only title last August when she became champion of the girls 14 and under division at the East Bay Junior Tennis Championship held at El Cerrito's Catacombs Club. What she's most proud of, however, is a second-place finish (out of 40 contestants) this past May at the Deborah Warford Tournament in Concord, a performance that enabled her to qualify for the prestigous 93rd annual Pacific Coast Junior Tennis Championships held earlier this month at the Belvedere Tennis Club in Tiburon.

This tournament, which has seen the like of Jimmy Connors (he won the boys 14 in 1966), Tracy Austin and Rosie Casals, involved more than 500 teenagers from across the United States, as well as from Australia, India, West Germany, Japan, Mexico and Canada. (Additionally, in the boys 16 and18 divisions, members of the American Junior Davis Cup Team competed.)

Unfortunately for Wei, she played the No. 1 seed in her first match — Caroline Scherman of Kentfield — and was knocked out soundly, 6-0, 6-0.

Wei's coach, Chuck Bleckinger, blamed the loss on her lack of experience.

"I had another student a couple of years ago who was about Carolyn's age," Bleckinger said. "She got demolished in a tournament by a player named Andrea Jaeger.

"I'm not saying Scherman's another Jaeger, but the fact in these big tournaments is that you'll run into players who've been playing tennis since they were seven years old. Some of the girls are practically professionals at 14. So you'll get some 6-0, 6-0 scores when a relatively new player like Carolyn encolunters someone her own age who has five or six years experience on her."

Bleckinger, a certified tennis pro who runs Bleckinger's Pro Tennis Shop in El Cerrito, said it's too early to tell whether Wei will ever become competitive with the top women players in the country.

"She's a hard worker, very dedicated," Bleckinger said. "Her age and her lack of experience make it impossible to say whether or not she's good enough to go professional. If she stays interested in the game, we'll know for sure in a couple of years."

What is certain is that Wei has a good deal of raw talent and intelligence.

"She's very quick and has good footwork," Bleckinger said. "She's got good court-sense, a good feel for the game. She's a good all-court player."

"I like to keep the ball in play and move the player around," said Wei. "Volleying is the weakest part of my game. I prefer to stick to the baseline."

That's unlike Mehmedbasich, who favors a more aggressive, charging-the-net style of play.

"I don't like to sit back and hit the ball 30 times," the 6-1, 155-pounder, said. "I've got to move, I've got to attack. I want to cause an error if I can."

The No. 1 man at El Cerrito High year before last, Mehmedbasich caused his opponents to make more than a few errors this spring as the No. 6 man for Hayward State, the fifth-ranked, NCAA Divsion II team in the nation. His individual record was eight wins and two losses, one of those defeats coming in the first round of the Division II Nationals held last May in Miami.

For his coach, Stan Clark, one of Mehmedbasich's victories was particularly memorable.

"I threw him right in the heap in the Far Western Conference Championship," Clark said, "and he came through for us. He had a win over a UC Davis player that was instrumental to our winning the conference title."

Clark feels Mehmedbasich's strongest point is his ability to relax and perform well under pressure.

"When I saw him in practice, I knew he had the ability," Clark said. "My only question was how he would respond under pressure - he was only the second walk-on to make the team at Hayward in my seven-year career.

"As it turned out, Brian just doesn't tense-up. He goes out, relaxes and hits his shots. You can teach tennis players a lot of things, but it's real difficult to teach them how to handle the pressure. Brian's a cool customer."

Perhaps his assurance on the court is a result of having played tennis since he was 8 years old. His father, who played tennis for the University of Michigan, taught him the game and Mehmedbasich proved a quick student, winning the California State Tennis Championship for his age group when he was only 10.

Since then he has competed in many tournaments, including the Pacific Coast Junior Tennis Championship (the tournament Wei was knocked out of in the first round). At age 12 he reached the quarterfinals of the boys 14 division and at age 14 he won the dr

Correction

The Times Journal wants to clarify a misunderstanding that has resulted from a recent city hall story.

There are differences between the Police and Fire departments and the Albany City Council over proposed changes in the City Charter regarding the city's civil service system.

In the July 25 issue of the Times Journal, it was reported that Police Chief James Simmons "indicated that the council would not enjoy the total cooperation of his department in performing that task." The phrase "that task" refers to (the previous paragraph) "writing a civil service ordinance to replace the provision in the charter by election day."

Reporter Stephen Buel, who wrote the story, overheard a private conversation between Simmons and a police colleague, and believes what he heard was a comment on the subject being discussed in the public portion of the City Council meeting.

It is irrelevant what Simmons was discussing with his colleague. The reporter should have verified what he heard. The reporter did not and was in error.

The Times Journal regrets the error.

generally not the casual runner."

For example, last year a world-class marathoner — Charlotte Gilbert of Richmond — took first place in the women's 30-39 age group with a time of 24 minutes and 19 seconds. She wasn't the first woman to the finish line either; that honor went to El Cerrito's Mary Gaffield, then 18, who came in at 24 minutes flat.

Gaffield, a member of UC-Berkeley's cross-country and track teams, is one of those "kids" Marchetti talked about that have grown up with the Hillside Run.

Beginning in 1976, when she was 13, Gaffield has been the first female to the finish line for the past six years. Fully intending to capture her seventh straight title, Gaffield said, "The Hillside Run was the first race I ever ran in. It has sentimental value for me and it's El Cerrito's only run. I'm really going to go for it; if anyone beats me they're going to have to really run to do it."

That's a pretty formidable challenge considering that Gaffield is currently running between 70 and 80 miles a week. The El Cerrito High record-holder for the women's mile (five minutes and three seconds) and two-mile (10 minutes and 48 seconds), Gaffield said she feels stronger than ever.

The same cannot be said of Kensington's David Bigelow, who won the race outright last year with a time of 20 minutes, 36 seconds. Bigelow, 22, won't compete in this year's race because of tendonitis in his knees, the result of too much distance running. He's upset because he'd like a shot at the record of 20 minutes, 10 seconds, set in 1975 by Ronald Wayne.

"I like the race because it's the local run," said Bigelow, a member of San Mateo's West Valley Track Club. "If you win it you can say that you're the best in the area."

The course itself is "pretty taxing," according to Gaffield. Beginning in the hills at the corner of Pomona and Moeser Lane, there is an easy half-mile of downhill before the race enters its most difficult phase: a grueling half-mile up Moeser Lane.

For the next mile there is rolling, up-and-down terrain which eventually flattens out between miles two and three-and-a-half, where the course proceeds along the BART tracks. The last half-mile is gradually uphill.

Gaffield said patience is needed to win the race.

"You need to play it cool during the first mile," she said. "That half-mile of steep uphill can really tire you out. I'm going to try and relax there and then pick it up over the last three miles."

Last year's winners include, for the men, Jeff Clark, who won the 12 and under division with a time of 30 minutes, two seconds; Jim Bloomer, victor in the 13-17 category with a time of 23 minutes, 5 seconds; Bige-

Council approves plan o modernize civil service

By STEPHEN BUEL

LBANY — The city council has approved the ording of a ballot argument supporting proposed hanges to the civil service regulations in the Albany arter.

he ballot argument says the charter change, which ently reduce the length of the charter, "will provide tern, efficient civil service system." At the same me, the argument claims the changes will "protect the rity of Albany's police officers and firefighters."

ese views are not shared by representatives of the ce and fire departments, who have argued before the that the changes would strip them of their employ- tections.

he council's ballot argument says the charter change ssary to save the city the time consuming and ex- task of having to put every proposed charter before the voters. Such elections range in expense about $4,500 to $8,000, according to the city clerk.

he council's argument in favor of the changes will be by mayor Ruth Ganong for the entire council, one council member, William Johns, opposes the .

• The council finalized its contract with the Pacific Racing Association to accept a $60,000 fee for the next four years as a hedge against future increases in the admissions tax at Golden Gate Fields.

• The council approved the second reading of an ordinance which gives the director of public works the authority to administratively grant encroachment permits for business signs and awnings. Such permits previously required the approval of the city council.

Potts charged in bank robbery

A 30 year-old Fremont man has been arrested in connection with the gunpoint robbery of several thousand dollars from the Mechanics Bank two weeks ago.

Allan Glen Potts, who was wanted in connection with no fewer than four other bank robberies in Oakland and Southern Alameda County, was arrested by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Alameda County Sheriff's Department and the Emeryville Police Department.

Now that Potts, a previously convicted felon, has been captured, the next step is for law enforcement officials to settle a jurisdictional dispute over who gets to prosecute him.

Both the Alameda County District Attorney's office and the United States attorney's office in San Francisco are reportedly contemplating action against Potts.

Ritschard said he was "very happy" about the defeat of the Peripheral Canal, because "I don't feel the so-called guarantees (of environmental protection) would have worked."

"I have a feeling some of the people who supported the defeat of Prop. 9 will turn around and support a trans-delta canal, which would be disastrous," he said, "so I think the fight has just begun.",

Ritschard said his year at Citrus College also changed his life by making him comfortable with public speaking.

"I was, believe it or not, really a quite timid person," he said.

Forced by school requirements to take a speech class, he chose the night class, hoping "people at night would be like me — they'd be hiding."

Though physically ill with fear before the first class, he eventually came to enjoy it.

"Not only did I win two public speaking contests," he said, "I had a part in the school play. "That year I became a whole different person."

"It's amazing how these little events change your life," he said. "I give a lot of speeches now. If I were that way now, it would be disastrous."

Hunch nails 2 for bank robberies

An El Cerrito police detective's hunch has led to the arrest of two suspects in robberies at the Twin Pines Savings & Loan.

Brian Grant, 26, of 1920 Carlson Blvd., Richmond, was taken in custody by police from El Cerrito, Berkeley and Richmond, at 9 a.m. last week at his home and booked for suspicion of robbery.

Orlando Glasco, 25, of 3327 Telegraph Ave., Oakland, was taken in custody by an FBI agent when he returned to his home Friday afternoon.

The two men were booked for separate holdups on July 22 and July 27 at the 1519 Shattuck Avenue savings firm, but police say the two are friends and apparently planned the separate "hits" together.

The second robbery was thwarted when a packet of $2,500 given the robber exploded in a cloud of red dye as he ran from the establishment.

The arrests occurred after El Cerrito police detective Michael Capuana, who had conducted an investigation of an earlier holdup at the Co-op Credit Union in El Cerrito, learned of the Twin Pines holdup. He visited Berkeley, and gave Berkeley police a photo of suspect Glasco, which was used in a photo lineup for witnesses of the Twin Pines robbery.

Witnesses named Glasco as the man who held up the bank July 27, and when Capuana produced pictures of Grant, named him as the man who held up the savings firm July 22.

Etching her way into art

Elizabeth Kavaler at her etching press in her Kensington studio

Kensington artist has local exhibit

By PATRICK KEEFFE

KENSINGTON — Elizabeth Kavaler worked for many years as a graphic artist in New York and eventually became the art director for a major perfume firm, Houbigant. She also freelanced in lettering and package design.

But when she studied the techniques of etching in 1965, she found her favorite artistic medium. Her etchings — of European and North Americn landscapes — are being exhibited at UC-Berkeley's Lawrence Hall of Science through Sept. 15.

Her color intaglio prints include line etchings, aquatints and drypoint, and are printed from two or three plates.

Kavaler, a native of Hamburg, Germany, who has lived with her husband Brunp in Kensington for 24 years, said she naturally became interested in art.

"My father was an architect," she said. "In fact, many people in my family were architects or in the arts."

Many of her etchings are miniatures, and she likes the exacting work of creating small, detailed scenes.

"It takes a lot of technical knowledge to produce a small etching. I learned how to do that as a commercial artist, designing small packaging and labels for perfumes.

"I like to do exacting work and etching requires you to be very exact. I usually work in several colors and that requires a plate for each color. And they all have to register exactly with each other on the final print, as in all other forms of printing."

She said she usually works from her own drawings, or occasionally from her own photographs.

"I sketch from nature on travels and hikes, in the mountains and at the seashore."

Since etchings are made from zinc or copper plates and the impression transferred to paper, the original image must be the reverse of the final print. That can present tricky technical problems.

"One of my etchings is of the Golden Gate Bridge and I needed to be very careful to do it in reverse and get it right.

But she also developed a quick way to avoid those problems:

Kavaler's etchings include works such as the European street scene (above) and "Hazy Mountain," below.

"I do all of my sketches on tracing paper, so I can just turn them around and make the plate from the reverse image."

Kavaler said she mixes her inks from dry pigments afd plate oil and does all her own printing on an etching press. She never makes more than 50 prints of any work.

After she has finished printing, she wraps her plates in waxed paper and stores them. Etching plates are easily damaged by scratches, finger marks and the oils and acids of the human hand, she said.

Although she enjoys creating etchings, Kavaler said she is beginning to branch out.

"I'm starting to try watercolors," she said. "Oh, once in a while I try a portrait or a life drawing, but I'm not very good at it. I will keep doing landscapes, though."

Kavaler studied at the California College of Arts and Crafts and learned etching with F. Vredaparis and Kathan Brown. She is a member of the California Society of Printmakers.

Her work has been purchased by the New York Public Library print collection, the Bank of California, Bank of America, Kaiser Foundation and the U.S. Department of State in Washington, D.C. Exhibitions of Kavaler's work have been shown in Berkeley, Oakland, San Francisco, Carmel, Tiburon and Orinda and

Circle Concerts' present evening of Baroque music on Aug. 8

OUSAND OAKS — "Circle Concerts" presents a of Baroque music by composers DeBoismortier, ldi, Vivaldi and Hasse on Sunday, Aug. 8 at 8 concert will be held at Thousand Oaks Baptist Colusa and Catalina Avenues.

forming will be David Renton, baroque flute; Jean harpsichord; and George Shotts, viola da gamba. suggested donation of $3 is asked.

Circle Concerts" is now entering its second year of oon at Thousand Oaks Baptist Church, and is in ce soley for the enjoyment of music.

ation studied modern flute with Cacilia Lam- at the Rheinische Musikschule in Koln. After early music played by Nikolaus Harnoncourt and up with original instruments, he changed to the yed wooden transverse flute and studied with Ste- ston at the Guildhall School of Music in London. believes the one-keyed flute is suitable for perfor- of music written from 1680 to 1800. His collabora- with Jean Nandi is his first long term committment to ber ensemble.

ndi was first attracted to the harpsichord when she attended a Bay Area master class conducted by Ralph Kirkpatrick. Later she actively studied with Laurette Goldberg, and spent a year in Amsterdam with Gustav Leonhardt. She has taught privately and given concerts in Berkeley since 1968.

In addition to early music, she has performed contemporary works. Interested in expanding the harpsichord repertoire, she has encouraged composers (including her father, Alan Hovhaness) to write for the historical instrument. Her harpsichord transcriptions of Italian and English music of the Renaissance have been published by Musica Sacra and Profana.

Shotts began his studies in early music with Frank Zimmerman at the University of Southern California. Later he began studies on the viola da gamba with Murray Lefkovitz, and helped in the development of the Collegium Musicum at University of California Northridge. He continued his studies with Shirley Marcus and Carol Herman in southern California, and at present with Hazelle Miloradovitch.

Richard Burdick is the producer of Circle Concerts, and is a professional French hornist and unpublished composer.

Hiroshima Day' plan remembers bombing

Asians, students and peace organizations are spon- a noon commemorative program of prayers, ts, and Asian music to mark the 37th anniversary of pping of the atomic bomb on Hiroshima Day, Friday, August 6, noon to 1 p.m. at Sproul Plaza on the UC-Berkeley campus.

Themes for the day are: "No More Hiroshimas-Nagasakis" and "Funds for Human Needs, Cut Military Spending." A featured speaker is the Rev. Nobuaki Hanaoka, head of the Friends of the Hibakusha (Japanese-American survivors of the atomic bomb), which is seeking medical benefits for Americans who were victims of the atomic bombs.

Other speakers include UC Regent Yori Wada, who recently proposed a nuclear freeze resolution to the board; Barbara Hayashida, of Asian Americans for Nuclear Awareness; Scott Serata, Nuclear Freeze; Livermore Action Group; Coalition for a Nuclear Free Pacific; Brenda Sunoo, Korean Support Committee; and Aaron Weinstein, Berkeley Resistance.

Traditional Asian music by Robert Kikuchiyngojo, paper cranes, and photos from Hiroshima will also be part of the program.

Getting together to quit the noxious wee

From the ashes of an addiction

By BEVERLY SHAVER

They "graduated" March 4, a date engraved on the consciousness of all who have come to this Brookside Hospital conference room.

Thirteen of the 16-member group, one of the largest in the American Cancer Society's series of Stop Smoking Clinics, has indeed given up "the weed."

Eight of them have formed an "I Quit Club" to support one another through the withdrawal trauma.

"We've shared a biggie, and that makes a bond," says Richmond resident Kathy Hendricks, who smoked a pack and a half a day for more than 20 years.

After the clinic, she went home and threw the remaining packs away. "I started repainting the house, a sort of symbolic act. A clean•fresh start."

El Cerrito's Nancy Schorn, an adminstrator at the Lawrence Lab in Berkeley, says she quit after developing a heart problem and finding that two of her three office ashtrays often contained lighted cigarettes.

"Two packs a day for 25 years was a tough habit to break," say Schorn, who must have consumed "340,000 packages of red licorice during these first few weeks." But now she can climb a steep hill, take full breath, and doesn't have "the afternoon slump."

Physical activity. Oral substitutes. Family support. The Quitters agree all are important. But what clinic leader Charles Smith recalls is toothpicks. "I chewed them constantly during that first miserable month."

For Lex Patton - Pinole resident, AC Transit employee, and a 20-year smoker - it was chewing gum.

"It's kind of crazy. I'd leave in the morning that first week or so and when my wife kissed me goodbye, I'd automatically check my pockets for my cigarettes, asking where they were, and she'd have to remind me that I didn't smoke."

"You have a new sense of power, not being addicted," says Smith. "And think how much revenue the tobacco companies have just lost around this table." The Quitters nod in satisfaction.

Jamie Nadler, whose wife accompanied him to the club meetings, is the star of the group, having quit after 35 years of three packs a day.

She says his first week of non-smoking was "like the DTs. He was terribly nervous and irritable and he devoured the dishes of sunflower seeds I had around the house, shells and all. But he stuck with it." The groups nods sympathetically.

"It's been a grieving period for all of us," Hendricks says. "Cigarettes were our close friends, always there, always comforting. We've lost a friend."

The craving never stops, The Quitters agree; you just have to take it one day at a time. They regard one another in silence. Then, a babble of voices celebrates the new feeling, that "everything we do is better."

"It's great to ITALICSstop thinkingITALICS about cigarettes, to be rid of that enslavement," exults Hendricks.

How a smokers' c can help you q

Heavenly Father, hear my plea
And grant my lungs serenity!
Let my breath be fresh and clean,
Without a trace of nicotine.
I ask your help, and it's no wonder
If I don't quit, I'm 6 feet under!

They enter the Kaiser Hospital lounge greeted with a nod by jeans-clad Charles Smith.

At first glance the eight men and wo have little in common. But they have come compelling worry — cigarette addiction doing to their lungs and hearts.

"It is an addiction," says Smith, opening Stop Smoking Clinic sponsored by the Am Society. "I know. I was a two-pack-a-day m until I went through one of these clinics ago."

His glance rests on a man he recognizes ous clinic.

"You didn't make it," says Smith, frin accusing. "Only about half of our clinic gradu it. And of that half, sorry to say, roughly lapse within a year."

His candor sets the tone for a no-nonsen that has helped hundreds kick the habit.

The clinic consists of four intensive — no aversion techniques, no pictures of Smokers fall into categories, says Smith laxer, crutch-user, craver, stimulant-seek smoker. The idea: See your pattern and tute.

Support is crucial. Some smokers buddy each other when they feel they're relapsing meeting after "graduation."

Group members introduce themselves their "habits" and why they want to quit.

"I've had two heart attacks and the doc solutely must stop smoking or else," says E San Pablo, a pack-a-day smoker for 16 years.

Francs Subler, a Richmond mother of smoker for 16 years, chain-smokes when nervo she must stop.

Matthew Mapp of Richmond has been pack a day for 20 years and want to quit in example for his asthmatic son. "But I can't own. I need help."

Says Smith, "People who have quit a year ecstatic, their lives have changed. They realize will power, they can control their own lives, ter. One of your first rewards will be getting ing back."

After a break, clinic members return to the find they will stop smoking at the next session.

"We'll quit cold turkey. It's a scientific fa the only way that works," Smith says, watching leave. "I can usually tell after a first session make it and who won't. Basically it comes dow positive about your life and good about yourse strong sense that life is worth living and living

In Smith's case it was his children who reason. He wants to be around to see them gr

A fan of old diaries

I thoroughly enjoyed Penelope Kramer's article on Carol Feinstein and her "voice" of the ordinary women of the West.

Her style of writing seemed to reflect the spirit of Ms. Feinstein, who so completely involved herself in the diaries that she could pick out appropriate stories from her head and become one of the real life characters.

I do not know Ms. Feinstein, but after the article I wanted to know more. Could the paper do some sort of insert about how to contact people such as her, or is that too directly promotional?

Keep up the good work!

Sincerely,
Kare Anderson

I would have guessed the very woman ahead of me was in her 40's and glancing cart, I assumed she had young people in her ut as I began to mentally assess her purchases, I alarmed. She had 3 large bottles of soft drinks, 2 es of popsicles, several packages of corn chips to chips, a quart jar of pickles, some jam, a loaf of ead, a box of sugared doughnuts, and several of cigarettes. For all of her time and money, she ing home empty calories with no nutritional value e potential killers!

h," said my friend Evie, later, "maybe they're little party. They probably don't eat that way all ." Oh, my God, thought I, even if they were hav- rty, why do we give our friends this junk?

Junk food vs. fast food ere has been much discussion in nutritional circles e food value of fast foods. Many people classify all ds as junk food and vice versa. We are learning t just isn't true.

nsumer and nutrition activists generalize by stat- fast food is notoriously high in sugar, fat, calories , while low in fiber and thus detrimental to health. rely mentioned that fast food refers to a generic y of food which is prepared and served in rapid — and which can be utilized for proper nutrition if sumer has the proper nutrition education. The ast" refers to service rather than the food." So states ward Appledorf, professor of nutrition at the Uni- of Florida.

Know what to choose e important statement made here is that the con- must have proper nutrition education. The kids in ermarket lady's home could still have had snacks or one to the local pizza parlor and been satisfied and too, by learning some basic rules for food choices. could learn these in home economics classes, of , but most of them are too busy taking computer ed welry-making so they must learn them at home by .

That's why it is so im- t that we teach them both at home and at school include their favorite foods without sacrificing nu- And when they go to the neighborhood fast food they should know that their taco does present a ced meal: a cereal shell, ground beef, shredded , lettuce and tomato. The cheeseburger with let- tomato and onion and a milk shake does too. What hould learn is to demand and be ready to pay for beef, a milk-based shake (not a dairy substitute), and t large enough to give a higher food value ratio over ing fat. They should avail themselves of the salad d exert consumer pressure on the suppliers for a ry facility, clean workers, good quality ingredients, proper cooking methods. They deserve it, don't their rating of fast foods, Consumer Reports states hile fast foods are high in calories, fat and sodium, not entirely off limits. They are acceptable nutritionally when consumed judiciously as part of a well-balanced diet.

Review time, class

So what does well-balanced mean? Simply to vary your menu to include milk and dairy products, meat and other proteins, fruits and vegetables, and grains and cereals; the old basic four food groups. Keep the colors on your plate bright and varied, have some raw foods, and share some of your meal with someone you like. (Those last points are unscientifically mine, but I know they work.)

The National Dairy Council prints a dandy little guide to good eating sheet with lots of color and information. They are just the right size to stick on the refrigerator door. If you want one, send me the usual envelope.

'Enterprise' crew plans a reunion

A reunion of the USS Enterprise (CV-6), once fondly known as the Galloping Ghost of the Oahu Coast, will be held in Oakland, at the Hyatt House, 455 Hegenberger Rd., during the weekend of August 6-8.

As part of the celebration, the members of the Enterprise Association, and their guests, will tour the contemporary USS Enterprise, which is currently based at Naval Air Station, Alameda, on Saturday, Aug. 7, from 1 to 3 p.m.

The group will return to the Hyatt House for a banquet at 7 p.m., to be followed by a speech by Captain R.J. Kelly, current commanding officer of the USS Enterprise (CVN-65).

The Enterprise Association is seeking members who served aboard the ship from her commissioning until she was scrapped in 1959. Tickets are $30.

For further information, contact W.D. Ferguson, 930 Northfield Dr., Hayward, 786-2408.

Local cops are busy with (tennis) rackets

ALBANY — The Albany Police Officers Association will host its third annual small department tennis tournament on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 7 and 8.

Teams will compete at Memorial Park from 8:30 a.m. until exhaustion.

Teams from Albany, El Cerrito, San Pablo, Piedmont, Emeryville, Benicia, University of California and Alameda County's District Attorney's investigators will participate.

Albany has won the last two years. Snacks will be sold.

The tournament raises funds for police association community projects.

Library sets story time

ALBANY — Pre-school stories continue at the Albany Library on Tuedays at 7:30 p.m. through Aug. 12 for pajama-clad listeners. And on every open day except Wednesdays, at 3:30 p.m., the "Story a Day" program of storytelling for all ages continues.

For further information on these and other free library programs, contact Elizabeth Overmyer or Zoe Kalkanis at the library.

Food sale aids elders

ALBANY — A sale of foods from the kitchens of Albany's older adults will be held at the Senior Center on Saturday, Aug. 21, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Called a "specialty" food sale, it features items in which these cooks and bakers have specialized for many years, including preserves (jams, jellies, pickles), salad dressings, dips, cakes, cookies, candy, muffins and breads. There will also be a coffee bar with snacks.

Fern Hardy and Josephine Russell are coordinators of this event, which is sponsored by the group's advisory council as a benefit for the Senior Center. The public is invited.

Police beat

Correction: In last Wednesday's Police Beat it was incorrectly reported that Timothy Trumell Thomas, 19, of Oakland, was arrested and charged with attempting to sell bogus marijuana to an off-duty police officer, as well as displaying a knife, for which he was charged with "possession of a deadly weapon."

In actuality, he was arrested and charged with attempting to sell bogus marijuana to an off-duty police officer, as well as displaying a knife, for which he was charged with "drawing or exhibiting a firearm or other deadly weapon." The Times Journal regrets the error.

ALBANY

The police department reports the following occurances for the week ending August 1:

July 26

● A man tried to pass off a $1 bill for a $20 bill by affixing four small 20's to the corners of the bill and using it to pay for gasoline at the Arco station at 800 San Pablo. When his ruse was discovered, he fled in a 1974 Ford Van, which was identified by its license plate.

He was later tentatively identified in a photographic line-up as William Ray Pierce, 46, of Richmond. He was contacted by the APD and agreed to come in and make a statement.

● Gary Lee Thomas, 20, of El Cerrito, and a 16 year old girl were arrested and charged with illegal possession of an alcoholic beverage after one of them allegedly broke a window at the Arco Mini Mart on San Pablo Avenue. The girl was also charged with resisting officers in the discharge of their duty.

● A Pioneer AM/FM cassette [illegible] stolen from a car parked at the Gate[illegible] complex. The thief entered the car by [illegible] front window.

● An AM/FM cassette deck of unk[illegible] was stolen from a car parked in the [illegible] The thief entered the car by breaking [illegible] tape deck, as well as damage to the car [illegible] board, amounted to $150.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Hungarian expert Paul Lukacs presents a couple of play problems in each issue of the "Bridge World" magazine. We show his bidding here and find South in a slightly optimistic slam.

A trump is led, follows and you win the ace, which is giving you time.

Here it is the trump and the king, dummy's eight, and it loses to the successful club finesse. Suppose you mond 10 finesse, and it loses to the king. A very good chance, but not quite good enough. Dummy's 10 is gone, you can now be sure that you need to take the finesse, but if you discards on the first trick you can chuck your first club.

West is on lead, either give you a ruff and discard or lead a club, your ace-queen.

Why didn't you double dummy? Because if West had the diamond honor, he would have adopted was strong.

Why didn't you squeeze and ruff? The chance of a king and one other is less than the chance of a club finesse being wrong.

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 4:
It is likely to form partnership this coming year where you have previously acted independently. It's possible that you might team up with different people for several different projects.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
This is a chance today that you may be prejudiced against your better judgment. Something against your better judgment will prove unwise if you own counsel might prove unsound.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You are industrious today, but don't attempt to do things which exceed your limitations. Remember that broke the camel's back!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Your own person is admirable, but today it's better for you if you abide by the will of others than oppose it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Problems should be kept within the home today. If you permit outsiders in, you may open up something you will regret.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Your audience wisely today. Take care not to turn into a conversation a topic about someone else or another person hold firm and opinionated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Be careful than usual with your personal decisions today. Don't leave anything out which might tempt a taker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Cliques or cliques today where you may be with a member with whom you're not on terms. A confrontation is possible.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Situations will be made harder today if you are negative. Go in knowing that you will win out, and you will.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Cliques or cliques today where you may be with a member with whom you're not on terms. A confrontation is possible.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Today the day to challenge authority figures. Only those who have some influence in your career. You could come out a trifle winner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Do not let having the last word be too important. Particularly if it could jeopardize a friendship you might win the battle but lose the war.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Your feelings are on guard today, there's a possibility you may be maneuvered so as to be held responsible for another's mistakes.

Roberta McLaughlin

KENSINGTON — Private family services for Roberta McLaughlin, a 40-year local resident, were held at the Sunset View Mortuary Chapel.

A native Californian, Mrs. McLaughlin died in a Berkeley hospital. She was 70.

She was a member of the Children's Hospital Chinquapin Branch and the Epiphany Group, and was a former long-time active member of UC-Berkeley's Public Ceremonies staff.

She is survived by her husband, Thomas C. McLaughlin; three sons, Michael T., of El Cerrito, Steven M., of Hillsboro, and Peter R., of Berkeley; a sister, Olive M. Fulmer, of Kensington; a brother, George Marsh, of El Macero, Calif., and four grandchilren.

The family prefers donations in Mrs. McLaughlin's name to the American Lung Assn. of Contra Costa County as memorials.

PUBLIC NOTICE

LEGAL NOTICE A—92889
NOTICE OF ELECTION AND MEASURE TO BE VOTED ON

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that a Special Municipal Election to be consolidated with the General Election on TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1982, for the following measure to be voted on.

MEASURE A

The City Council of the City of Albany hereby proposes that Chapter VIII, Section 8.01 et seq, of the Albany City Charter, be amended to hereafter read as follows:

VIII. CIVIL SERVICE

SECTION 8.01. MUNICIPAL CIVIL SERVICE.

(a) There shall be a Municipal Civil Service, hereinafter referred to as the Classified Service. Membership in the Classified Service is defined in Section 8.05 (a) of this Chapter. There shall be a Civil Service Board, hereinafter referred to as the Board, to administer the Classified Service.

(b) The City Council is authorized to pass ordinances pertaining to the Civil Service System. Ordinance provisions affecting the Classified Service shall require a four-fifths (4/5) vote of the City Council, and shall include not less than one (1) public hearing on the subject matter of the ordinance.

(c) There shall be a Board consisting of five (5) members who serve without compensation. Each member of the City Council shall have the right to make one (1) appointment. If a Councilmember is unable to appoint, or declines to do so, within thirty (30) days of a vacancy on the Board, then a majority of the Council can make the appointment for that Councilmember.

(d) Members of the Board may be removed by a vote of at least four (4) members of the Council. Board Member terms shall be concurrent with the term of the Councilmember who appointed them.

(e) No officer, employee, or member of another Board, Commission, or City Council shall be eligible for appointment to the Civil Service Board.

SECTION 8.02. ORGANIZATION.

(a) The Civil Service Board shall choose one (1) member to serve as Chairperson.

(b) The City Council shall provide a person to serve as a secretary and administrative assistant to the Civil Service Board.

(C) Procedures for organization of the Board, any employees thereof, and duties not hereinafter specified, may be established by resolution.

SECTION 8.03. POWERS AND DUTIES.

(a) The Board shall formulate rules and regulations governing the selection, promotion, reinstatement, re-employment, transfer, of all persons who are in the Classified Service in accordance with any ordinance adopted and/or amended by the City Council.

(b) The Civil Service Board shall hold written, oral, and any such other examinations as may be appropriate for applicants for employment, promotion, re-employment, reinstatement, or transfer, and shall maintain records and certified lists as appropriate. If any open examination is held, the Board shall give reasonable preference to existing City employees within the same department, provisions of Section 8.04 (a) of this Chapter notwithstanding.

(c) There shall be a Hearing Board. The Hearing Board shall hear disputes related to members of the Classified Service, the exact nature and severity of such disputes to be defined by ordinance. Members of the Civil Service Board have the authority to serve as members of the Hearing Board.

SECTION 8.04. DISCRIMINATION PROHIBITED.

(a) All appointments, promotions, or other personnel decisions affecting status of an employee shall be based upon selection of the best qualified individual.

(b) No person in the Classified Service, or seeking admission thereto, shall be appointed, promoted, demoted, or discharged, or in any way favored or discriminated against because of political opinions, or affiliations or because of religious belief.

SECTION 8.05. EFFECT ON EMPLOYEES IN POLICE AND FIRE DEPARTMENTS AND OTHER DEPARTMENTS.

(a) All members, who are part of the Classified Service prior to the adoption of Chapter VIII, Sections 8.01, et seq., shall be considered as members with their present status of the Classified Service under the system as now adopted. Employees, not part of the previous Classified Service, shall have no change in status until rules, regulations, ordinances or procedures have been passed which may include additional employees. All future employees hired to positions which are part of the Classified Service at this time shall so remain part of the Classified Service.

(b) The City Council is empowered to define other positions to be included in the Civil Service System and to expand the system to include additional members by ordinance.

SECTION 8.06. The cost of conducting examinations and other duties of the Civil Service Board shall be charged against the general fund of the City. These costs shall be certified by the Civil Service Board and, when so certified, shall be paid by the City Council in the same manner as other charges against the City.

SECTION 8.07 SEVERABILITY.

If any section, subsection, clause, or phrase of this law is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decisions shall not affect the validity of the remaining sections, subsections, clauses or phrases of this law.

And;

The City Council of the City of Albany hereby proposes that Chapter 3.09 be added to the City Charter to hereafter read as follows:

SECTION 3.09. SAFETY SERVICE DEPARTMENTS.

(a) There is hereby created a Police Department which shall be administered by the Chief of Police. The department shall consist of such sworn and non-sworn personnel whose ranks, duties, and compensation are set forth by the City Council through ordinance or resolution.

(b) There is hereby created a Fire Department which shall be administered by the Fire Chief. The department shall consist of such personnel whose ranks, duties, and compensation are set forth by the City Council through ordinance or resolution.

(c) The Fire and Police Departments may not be consolidated except upon a vote of the electorate.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that the deadline for arguments pro-con on the proposed measure will be THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1982, no later than 5:00 P.M., in the City Clerk's Office.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN, that pursuant to Council resolution rebuttals will be accepted, and the deadlines will be MONDAY, AUGUST 16, 1982, no later than 12:00 NOON, in the City Clerk's Office.

2 groups get grants for plans

A Berkeley health and social services consulting firm and an environmental group based in Albany each recently received grants from the San Francisco Foundation.

Operating locally more than 10 years, Berkeley Planning Associates has been granted a three-month, $25,000 to develop a demonstration program in Marin County offering prevocation services for the emotionally disturbed.

A two-month $2,000 grant has been awarded to the Coordinating Committee on Pesticides in Albany. The funds are earmarked for a study on the Bay Area's ability to respond to toxic emergencies.
